'Big 3' Djokovic, Federer & Nadal Start Favourites; Barty Eyes Major No. 2

Prajwal.Hegde@timesgroup.com

London: Novak Djokovic, Rafael Nadal and Roger Federer are rocking the numbers. Between them, they've claimed the last 10 majors. Like those old classics that are hard to put away, the trio are the flowurities to add another Grand Slam title to their collective haul of 38 who turned his season around at Wimbledon last year following elbox sugarry wasted little time in underlining the position of tennis to theme. Federer and Nadada and the state of the said. The defending champion didn't saw 'again', but then why state the obvious.

Just to give the numbers another perspective, Federer will be just short of his 38th birthday by the time The Championships conclude on July 14. At 33. Nadal annexed a staggering 12th French Open title in June and at 32. Djokovic is looking for a 16th major title in a bid to end his career with the biggest collection.

This time tested consistency is in essence, the core of sport, its course and its challenge. Djokovic, eight time winner Federer and Nada, are quietly shredding American philosopher Henry David Thoreau's line of 'age.

Rafa should have been seeded above Roger

There are two reasons why I would like to men-tion Rafael Nadal at the start of my preview to Wim-bledon. First, I don't think he should be seeded below Roger Federer after his performance ULTIMATE at the French Open. Further, Nadal is a two-time champion was very close to victory at many moments. I know Feder-here and was in excellent touch last year. His semifinal tournament has seen, but this against Novak Djokovic was year, Nadal should have been an amazing match and Nadal number two. As things stand, was very close to victory at they might meet at the semifimany moments. I know Federals, so it does not make too much of a difference.

The other reason is the draw which has Nick Kyrgios Jayers are not going far in playing Nadai in Round Two.
Kyrgios is a tough opponent and though he first has tow the first round, it promises be a delectable contest.
Djokovic would also be excited. This was the venue that signalled his incredible cometake him pest haps he needs that energy and inspiration to take him past his French Open disappointment.

Once again there is some oncernabout how they ounger Jayers a not going far in Grand Slams. I would hope for a for all payers and proposed in the point of the payers and payers are not going far in the payers and payers are not going far in Grand Slams.
